OGDEN IS READY FOR CONVENTION

Every Preparation Completed for Meeting of Travelers and Their Friends.

A meeting of the central and sub-committees of the United Commercial Travelers, which convenes today, was held at the Weber-club rooms last evening. The committees reported all their work completed and stated that everything was ready for the event.

A telegram received last evening from Butte announced that a delegation of 200 from that place would arrive here today. A special train carrying the delegates from the north is scheduled to arrive at 7 o'clock this morning.

At 10 o'clock the convention will be opened at the Elks' club. This session will last until noon, when an adjournment will be taken until 2 o'clock. The afternoon session will close at 7 o'clock and one hour later the delegates with their friends will assemble at Toller's dancing academy where a ball will be given in their honor. The special rates on all lines running into Ogden will go into effect tomorrow morning, when the large crowd of visitors are expected to arrive.

The committee having in charge the baseball game in view of the large attendance expected, has requested persons attending the game to refrain from going in vehicles. Notwithstanding that the weather has been such as to prevent practice work, a decidedly interesting game of ball is looked for. The line-up of the two teams will be as follows:

Ogden: J. Wessler, C. Smith, R. Irvine, T. Leavitt, J. Moore, W. Pethold, W. Rudiger, E. De Lameter, J. Allen.
Salt Lake: O. Oster, J. Papworth, D. Margetts, L. Iverson, J. Judson, J. Irvine, J. Hooper, J. Miller.

CAMPBELL SAYS HE WAS HOLD-UP

Young Man Admits That He Robbed Men in Lobby of Reed Hotel.

Roy Campbell, who was arrested on Tuesday evening on suspicion of being the bandit who held up five men in the lobby of the Reed hotel early Tuesday morning, yesterday confessed to being the hold-up, and directed the officers to where they might find the money and gun.

He says he played a lone hand, but the police are of a different opinion and believe that there were others who had a hand in the game. Campbell, according to his own story, did not expect to have to go up against five men when he turned the trick but was figuring on landing the money that was in the hotel safe. He needed some ready money to leave this part of the country. He says he hid in the grass back of the block where the deed was committed all of Tuesday. It rained hard a greater portion of the day, but this did not drive him from his concealment. When night again came on Campbell buried the money and the gun at the foot of a small knoll and then endeavored to reach his room in the Opera house block without being seen. The police were waiting and the arrest followed. The amount of money found in the place named was decidedly less than that claimed to have been taken from those held up. It is thought that someone in his excitement counted his cash twice before he handed it over.

The weighing of the mails, which has been going on at the Union depot since Feb. 20, was discontinued at 12 o'clock midnight Tuesday.

E. M. Allison Delivers Address to Graduates.

Logan, June 5.—The regular commencement exercises of the Agricultural college were held this morning and despite adverse weather conditions a large number of people attended them. President W. S. McCormick and all his fellow trustees were present. The excellence of the papers presented by the members of the graduating class was one of the features of the occasion, and made a very favorable impression upon those present. Attorney E. M. Allison, Jr., of Salt Lake City delivered the address to the graduates. He departed somewhat from the usual line of such addresses and gave the class some very practical advice. His remarks relative to modern fiction were particularly caustic.

President Kerr submitted a report of the condition of the big school. A summary of it follows: He explained that the destruction of the Mechanic Arts building and equipment, one week before the opening of the college, had interfered with the work, particularly in mechanic arts. This had resulted in a smaller attendance than there would otherwise have been. The building had been compelled and equipped, so that the work in the shops was resumed early in February.

Registration this year is 663, representing twenty-four counties of Utah and the states of Idaho, Arizona, Colorado, Nevada, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, Oregon, South Dakota and Wyoming, besides Canada and Mexico. Of the 663 students, 147 are doing work of college grade. There are 108 students in agriculture, 113 in domestic science and arts, 125 in commerce, 156 in engineering and mechanic arts, and 27 in general science.

There is an excellent showing in the character and grade of work being done throughout all the departments. Thoroughness and efficiency characterize the work of the faculty. The students are industrious and loyal, interested not only in the work of their respective courses, but also in the various student organizations—literary, debating, athletic, etc.

During the recent years the college has made great progress in advancing the standard of instruction. The short, or high school courses have been increased from two to three and four years, and from one and a half to two years' work has been added to the requirements for graduation from the baccalaureate courses.

Last year the graduating class included nineteen with degrees and eighteen with certificates. This year there are twenty-two students with certificates, and should be none with degrees, as this is the first year in raising the standard of the degree courses. Three students, however, have met the requirements and will graduate with their degrees.

President Kerr also referred to the general awakening throughout the country during the recent years in the matter of providing for the introduction of certain phases of industrial education in the rural schools, and the great demand there is in Utah for teachers who are able to handle work in mechanic arts, domestic arts, and agriculture in legislation. He stated that the college summer school had been organized for the purpose of giving the teachers of the state, who could not take regular college courses, the training they require along these lines. He also commended the untiring interest taken in this work by the faculty, who, without extra compensation, remain at the college during the vacation for the work of the summer school. Even the fees received from the summer school students had been turned in to the college treasury.

He also explained that the experimental work in agriculture had been very much extended during the past year. In addition to the work at the home station at Logan and the experimental farm one mile north of the college, special work has been carried on at the branch horticultural station at St. George, the central station in Utah county, the six arid farms in as many different counties of the state, and a number of special experimental plots in different counties, used for investigations in irrigation and drainage.
